FORTUNES IN FRUIT STANDS.

Big Money in Small Business by Economic Italian.
Few of the thoughtless passersby and chance patrons of the corner fruit stands on the city streets realize the comparatively large profits reaped by those who have their capital invested in this apparently insignificant business. To the glance at the vendor of fruit and candy probably the only thought that occurs is that here is a poor unfortunate foreigner cast on our shores, who manages by this simple means to eke out a living for himself and a large family of small children. Indeed a closer inspection into the comfortable lives of these seekers for gain, involving long hours spent in continued application to work, the short remaining time passed in the quiet home or on the streets, would reveal little of the true state of affairs.

There is a vast difference in the indications from outward appearances. Some of them carry an air of prosperity in neatness of dress and cleanliness of person, while others seem to wish to advertise their poverty by a show of tattered garments and generally destitute appearance. But in general those appearances are deceptive. The man in rags may ordinarily be regarded as more fortunate than his apparently prosperous brother. He is making more because it is not so much what is made in profits as what is saved, and in a small business, like that of the corner fruit dealer, this general principle is especially true. The amount of the gains possible to the astute dealer is seen from a few examples of unusual prosperity. A short time ago an Italian who had been in the business on a down town corner for ten years closed out his business to the privilege of his location. This amount he added to a fortune of $60,000 already accumulated. In the stock yards region a similar sale was made in consideration of $250. In the same neighborhood the death recently of a veteran in the business revealed the fact that he had been possessed of property amounting to $17,000. Some of our largest business blocks, notably on State and Market streets, are now owned by those who started in business in this way.—Chicago Journal.

Hawaiian Electric Company.

The cleanest, brightest and really, in the long run, the cheapest and best light for use in the family residence, is the incandescent electric light. Safe, nothing could be safer. A few days ago a prominent gentleman of Honolulu came rushing down to the office of the Electric Company and said: "Give me figures for wiring my house, and I will let you do it; no more lamps for me. Last night a lamp tipped over and it came so near setting fire to the house and burning my children and I take no more risks."

This is the sentiment of quite a number in the past few weeks, who have ordered their houses fitted with the perfect light. Just think it over and make up your mind that you want the best and safest light; send for the Hawaiian Electric Company and tell them what you want.

THE REAL NEW WOMAN.

Own there are heights that she cannot attain. She is not at home with a gun. In pastures where one living creature is slain She cannot perceive any fault. And never a poor feathered songster has died Her hat or her bonnet to grace. And after the bounds it were torture to ride. Let Reynard should lose in the race. And much she ignores that new women should learn. And still she refuses to smoke. One wine from another she cannot discern. But she is splendid at seeing a joke. Her love and her friendship no labor can feat. In truth, not a mortal could ever forget Her humor, her kindness, her charm. And though it may end in her loss With women she never can wrangle for favor Or haggle a sonnet across. Her cry, that are loyal and fearless and kind. At wrong or injustice will stand. But they never seem anxious a failure to find; They are ready to blame. And will she is loved by the best and the worst. For sympathy, courage and truth. For friendship unfailing they love her, the first. The last for her infinite ruth. Oh, what if she never should do or should dare In regions by woman untrod Yet when her step passes men turn from de-
